

The Third Generation Assumes Leadership at Totten Tubes, Inc.

The baton has been passed! In January 2017, the third generation ("G3") of Totten Tubes, Inc. assumed leadership of the company. This comes 61 years after the company was founded by Marvin Totten in 1955.

Previously, the second generation of Totten Tubes ran the company after Marv retired in 1975. During those years, brothers Dave Totten was President; Jeff Totten was Vice President and in 1976, Tracy Totten joined the company becoming Sales Manager. In 2006, Tracy Totten was elected President.

In a symbolic gesture at his retirement party on December 3, 2016, Tracy, as last of the G2 active employees, passed a chrome-plated steel tube baton inscribed with "G-2 to G-3, 12/3/16" to each of the four G3 employees.

Now the third generation is at the helm with Greg Totten, President CEO; Kim Totten, Financial Analyst; Mike Totten, Sales; and Paul Totten, President COO.

Collectively, the third generation has over 82 years working experience at Totten Tubes. They are focused on the company vision and strengthening family relationships. Their hope is to pass Totten Tubes to the G4s.

North American Steel Alliance, NASA thanks Totten Tubes' second generation leadership for their participation and contributions to our organization since joining in 2011. Totten Tubes has reaped benefits from their high level of participation but has also been proactive in "giving back" to the co-op with their input, ideas and support. There is ample indication that Greg, Kim, Mike and Paul will continue to participate at the levels set by the generation of leadership preceding them.
